FRIDAY, JUNE 23, 1893.

President Cleveland tendered the Hawaiian Mission to Hon. J. Proctor Knott, who declined it on account of his law practice.

Joshua D. Powers has been appointed Revenue Collector in the second Kentucky district and Ben Johnson in the fifth district.

Some newspaper has very truthfully said that it took a Republican administration just four years to produce the present financial condition.

Frankfort has again won in the fight over the location of the State Capital. The "hole in the ground" seems to be invincible on that point. Possession must certainly be half a battle.

The financial condition of the country, as viewed from a Treasury standpoint, shows general improvement. Europe is buying our grain in greater quantities, gold shipments have ceased for the present, confidence is being restored, and money is not so tight.

The New York Clearing-house Association adopted the proposition to issue clearing-house loan certificates to aid banks that need assistance during the financial stringency. The President of one of the larger National banks said the demand for redemptions from the South is less than from any other section of the country, and the failures in the South have been fewer.—C. J.

The Ashland Signal says "the Cleveland Administration is between the devil and the deep blue sea over the financial question." As the Republican party is wholly responsible for the bad condition of affairs, it is in rather bad taste for an organ to refer to the situation in such a manner. The Democrats have no cause to feel ashamed of their position. They are simply doing the best that can possibly be done with the wreck. Let's wait four years and see if things are not improved.

Bank failures, shutting down of mills and tight money, instead of being due to a Democratic administration, are the legitimate fruits of Mr. Harrison's term, and follow in the wake of his administration as naturally as a famine follows a failure of crops. The present state of things was predicted before he retired from office. It falls on the Democratic party, however, and will have to be accounted for by that party. This is the party now in power handicapped by the sins of the Republican party.—Portsmouth Times.

The World's Fair will be open on Sundays during the entire period the great show is in existence. Chief Justice Fuller in the United States Court of Appeals at Chicago overruled the decision of the Federal Circuit Court, which granted an injunction closing the gates. The court postponed the full expression of its views until a later day, owing to the desire to have the judgment rendered at once. The decision was concurred in unanimously by all three of the Judges. An appeal to the United States Supreme Court could not be considered before October, when the Fair closes, that court having adjourned for the summer.—Courier Journal.

An article in a Chicago paper about a man named Edwards who claimed to be the only living victim of the scalping process, inspires the following account in the Laure County Herald:

"The above article is doubtless true, except in one particular. Mr. Edwards is not the only man now living who has been scalped by Indians. Mr. John W. Twyman, of this place, has been scalped, and his head shows very conspicuously that fact.

"Mr. Twyman was scalped on the 18th day of May, 1865, near Elm Creek, Neb., the place where Mr. Edwards, above referred to, now lives. At the time Mr. Twyman belonged to the regular United States Army, being a member of Company Eight, Third Regiment, U. S. V. Mr. Twyman and ten other soldiers were sick and had been left at Fort Leavenworth for a few days. On their recovery they started forward to catch up with the command, and, when a few miles out from the fort, were captured by a band of Indians. Nine of the soldiers were killed; one of his escape, and Mr. Twyman was scalped and left by the Indians for dead. He says that when the Indians had scalped him they examined him carefully to see if he was yet alive. They kicked him in the side, turned him over and jerked his arms about, but knowing that his life depended upon his shrewdness he feigned to be dead, and the Indians finally left him. In a short time he got up and tried to walk, but soon fainted from loss of blood. He regained consciousness and took his underclothes and tied them about his head, as the sun was very hot. He waited a few steps and fell again. A third attempt was made, but he fell and lay unconscious until the ambulance wagon from the fort came out to gather up the dead. He was taken to Fort Corinth, Neb., and remained there a year under treatment of Dr. M. Beshore now of Trinidad, Col., who well remembers the circumstances.

"Mr. Twyman is not surprised at Mr. Edwards' claim that he is the only man now living that has been scalped. He says that Mr. Edwards is the only one besides himself that he has ever heard of and doubts that there is another. The fact that Indians supposed their victims to be dead when scalped is evidence that few escaped alive, the scalp being evidence that a white man had been killed."

School election is over and everybody is at work, till the Fourth of July.

Visitors are too numerous to try to make mention of them all so won't say anything about them.

Mrs. T. B. Elswick returned from an extended visit at Hanging Rock, Ohio.

Wm. Stewart, Jr., is dealing extensively in cattle this year. He has a great many on hands now.

John Queen has purchased a large farm bell and is building a frame about sixty feet high to hang the bell on or about.

Bud Fannin moved his flour to his new cellar, and now says he does not think that he will miss any more of it as some miscreant stole nearly a barrel of Mr. Fannin's choice flour, not long since.

Chris Savage and Hol Tomlin are trying to work up a contract in oil barrels and staves. It is truly hoped that they may succeed, as it gives our laborers work and makes cash more plenty, also, afford a sale for timber at a good price. We're in for it. Hurrah for Chris and Hol.

George H. Fannin, Lindsay White, Pierce Stanley Wm. Murley, John Enyarts and Billy Stewart, Jr., are preparing to take a fishing trip soon, they will go to the Ohio river and perhaps stay two weeks or longer.

Democrats Should Have the Preference.

Dover News: Hon. John G. Carlisle, Secretary of the Treasury, does not believe in any Republican holding an office that a competent and worthy Democrat can be found to fill. Mr. Carlisle is right on this subject. If under the present Administration we put Republicans in office and maintain them, we are doing a great injustice in behalf of our party. We should be partisan and loyal, and every competent, worthy and honest Democrat who is a strong advocate of the dictates of true Democracy, surely ought to be preferred by the party in preference to a g. o. p. man.

Don't Meddle.

"Hands off!" should be the motto of legislators in reference to business. Let it alone. Let it take care of itself.

Of the human race, 500,000,000 are well clothed, that is, wear garments of some kind that will cover nakedness; 250,000,000 habitually go naked, and 700,000,000 only cover the middle parts of the body.

New School Law.

The following are some of the important features of the new school law for Kentucky passed in both houses and ready for approval by the Governor:

That (for the first time) Kentucky shall have a uniform system of public schools—each district, big or little, must keep a five month school annually, instead of three, four or five.

For a reasonable bond to be executed by County Superintendents instead of one for "double the amount due the county."

For adequate punishment of a Trustee or County Superintendent who willfully makes a false census return.

For reporting the special districts to which surplus in the special districts may claim it as provided by the new Constitution.

For five days' notice to a trustee or teacher whom it is thought necessary to remove, in order that he may be put upon his defense.

For paying County Superintendents a minimum of eight cents per pupil child reported, instead of ten cents.

For reducing the tariff on school-books.

For specially excluding from the teachers' ranks all persons who indulge in drunkenness, gambling, profanity or licentiousness. State Board and of conducting examinations by County Examining Boards which will guard against fraud and insure fair examinations.

For equalizing population of school districts as far as practicable.

For allowing nobody in a white district to hold the office of trustee unless he can read and write. In colored districts trustees must be had, if practicable, who can read and write.

For enabling a County Superintendent to know who are trustees. (The trustees-elect must report, or the office can be declared vacant and be filled by appointment.)

For enabling the trustees in their corporate capacity to borrow money for building, furnishing, etc., so that the work may be done at once instead of "after many days."

For preventing the building of rooms 14x14, and so on.

For the appointment of a District Treasurer, to whom school taxes must be paid, and for the collection of the delinquent list by Sheriff.

For a definite per cent to be paid for collecting district taxes.

For preventing contracts with teachers an unreasonable length of time before beginning of school year.

For having each teacher in graded schools, except in cities of the first, second, third and fourth classes, to keep a register, from which the principal teacher in each case shall make up his register.

For enabling chartered schools to organize under the provisions for graded free schools.

For the payment of debts hitherto contracted by trustees of graded free school districts.

For investing the State Board of Examiners with the power to issue State diplomas and State certificates, upon good and sufficient examination, in certain higher branches, in addition to those prescribed for the common school course.

For joint institutes; counties, not exceeding four, can combine and have a strong institute, instead of a weak one, as very small counties can not avoid having.

For a county teachers' library.

FALLSBURG, KY.

Our Summer Normal at this place is progressing nicely under the efficient management of our two bright Prof's, viz: Prof. J. G. Talbert and Prof. G. B. Carter. We can conscientiously say without one dissenting voice in Fallsburg that we are having one of the best Summer Normals in state of Kentucky. Also, our Literary Society cannot be rivaled or surpassed by any in northeastern Kentucky.

We have large attendance, good order, good debating, declaiming and reciting and a lively time in general.

It is being rumored that next session of Lawrence County Teachers' Institute will be held at Blaine this year. The news has been received with murmurings and discontent throughout the lower end of the county. We think Blaine is the proper place for holding the Institute for the reason that it is more accessible than Blaine and nearer the center of the county, and is more preferred than Blaine.

Several of Fallsburg's prominent boys attended John Robinson's grand show at Catlett-burg last Saturday and report an extraordinary good time.

Charles Chaffin a nice young boy of Fallsburg has obtained an agency for a good patent medicine. He recommends it to cleanse the system, purify the blood and make you tell the truth. We heartily recommend it to the trustees of the county for we surely think it would do them good in days that are to come. The name of the medicine is "Balm of Gilead Elixir."

If this appears in next issue you will hear again from with the milk, half table and block marks. The milk, 100, is 25 miles, and the house number, 100, is 12 miles from the county seat.

The settlement of the country or the growth of towns along the roads does not interfere with the system. Within the town, the town streets and town house numbers govern. When the town limits and streets are passed, and the country road reached, the country house numbers govern. The first one used depends upon the distance it may be from the courthouse, the starting point of measurement, and then continue regularly from that point. When a road enters a town the town streets and house numbers govern. The first one used depends upon the distance it may be from the courthouse, the starting point of measurement, and then continue regularly from that point.

Directories of the country houses can be easily made, and by knowing the exact distance and having carefully marked road signs in public country travel will be accompanied with much less of the blind groping method which it is now necessary for strangers to follow.

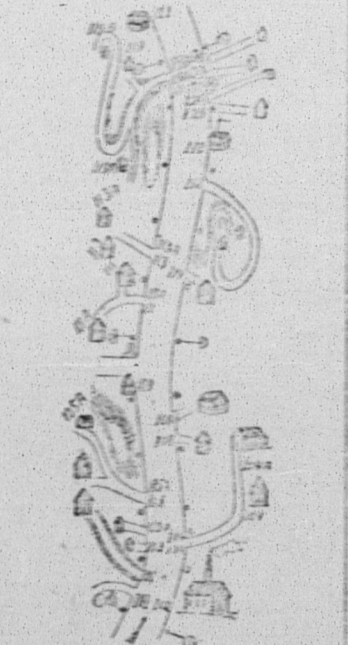

AGRICULTURAL HUNTS.

AN EXCELLENT SCHEME.

A practical method of numbering country houses, and making country roads, has been established in Contra Costa county, Cal. This method—known as the "Hatch" system—has received a noteworthy attention and sanction. Because the great convenience which the system has given the residents of Contra Costa county, it has fairly to be considered the greatest aid in the fortification of free rural delivery that has yet been suggested. The plan was devised by A. L. Hatch, and was carried out by private citizens, officials giving their cooperation in the new scheme, was seen to be a success.

In this ten-block system, the roads are first named, there being as little change made as possible in the names through different parts. The roads are kept at the ordinary width of 75 feet, and at the end of each mile, the road is numbered. The plan is to have a mile of road in each block, and the roads are numbered in the right and the left upon the left side. The same numbering is observed whether the block is occupied or not, thus providing for the building of houses on vacant lots. Where more than one house occurs in a block, the alphabet is brought into use as follows: A, B, C, etc. There are twenty road numbers in the mile. On the house or post marking a division of blocks the numbers are placed on either side of a line showing the division. On the right the post is marked 1000, on the left 1001. At the end of each mile or ten blocks an X is put in the middle of the mile. The half-mile is indicated by a V in a semi-circle.

By this exact division it is a very simple matter to calculate the distance. As there are ten numbers in each block, divided into ten numbers, by two, which will give the number of blocks from the starting point. There being ten blocks to the mile, divide this result by ten or point off one decimal and the distance in miles and tenths is shown. If a house number is odd, add one to complete the block before dividing by ten. The accompanying cut shows a section of a Contra Costa road.

The salutary condition of Louisa is not so good as we wish to see it. The ungodly dog kennel is keeping the low place damp and malarious, and the careless housekeeper is allowing piles of refuse to smother to heaven. Rotten potatoes, stale cabbage, ancient fish, putrid meat, dish water and slops are thrown into streets and back yards, and when the sun strikes the foul masses with a forty-horse power "seventy-seven separate and well defined stinks" assail the nose and people begin to feel sick. What wonder is it?

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Random Points on a Trip, and Hints to Visitors.

When you visit the World's Fair don't formulate any order of seeing it. To begin at the first building you find upon entering the grounds and take the others as you come to them is the best plan, especially if your time is in any degree limited. The variety thus encountered will do much toward preventing a weariness of sight-seeing, and a greater point is that it will save you much unnecessary walking. You will not realize how important the saving of a few steps each hour will be until you go there and tramp about for a day or two.

It may perhaps be well to modify the above advice by stating that it is advisable to visit the Art Gallery early in your trip. It is a very extensive exhibit, and of a nature likely to grow monotonous to the average visitor before he has seen the half of it; therefore, to do yourself and this great exhibit justice, go to see it before your interest in sight-seeing begins to wane, but do not undertake to complete it at one visit. Return as opportunity and your disposition prompt you. There are ten miles of paintings shown there, to say nothing of the statuary, etc. So you can see that a wonderful feast of art may easily become a very tiresome sight unless some method is used in seeing it. The most pleasant and profitable way to pass a rainy day is to spend it in one or two of the main buildings. The grounds get quite muddy in rainy weather.

Viewing the Kentucky exhibits alongside those of other States you will be ashamed to acknowledge that you are a Kentuckian, unless they improve wonderfully over what they were three weeks ago.

Our tobacco and hemp displays in the agricultural building are very creditable, and there is an attempt at a cereal exhibit.

In the mining building Kentucky occupies a very humble position. She is entirely overshadowed by States not naturally able to make one-half the show, but endowed with a liberal supply of that all-important factor of development—enterprise. The front of the Kentucky space is the most attractive part of the display. It is a wall of respectable height, built entirely of canal coal, and having a graceful arch entrance. "Whitehouse Cannon Coal" in gilt letters shows prominently at the base of one side of the archway. The scene on the inside of the inclosure, however, is disappointing. The specimens are not shown to even a fair advantage. Unless a revolution is made in this department it will do much to retard the mineral development of our state. The world naturally looks upon the display as the best we can make. Much blame must be laid at the door of the board of Commissioners for this state of affairs because of the small amount of money assigned to this most important of all the exhibits of our state.

The Forestry specimens were in a state of extreme chaos when we were there. It is reported that they have since been stacked up. The various woods are shown only in the rough state, none of it being displayed in different finishes, as other states are doing. By the way, our neighbor, West Virginia, has one of the most effective forestry exhibits seen there. Some of the valuable Kentucky specimens were burned in a railroad fire and their places have not been supplied. Among that destroyed was the section of a mammoth poplar tree which grew in the Sandy Valley, Pike county. There is nothing in the exhibits which we saw that equaled it. Our Pike neighbors should send another section of the same tree, if they have it. A very thin slice would suffice.

One of the three parlors in the Woman's building is the Kentucky parlor. It is tastefully furnished and attracts its share of attention. The Kentucky building makes no pretensions further than being an "old Kentucky home." It contains statues of Henry Clay and Daniel Boone and pictures of some of our prominent men. It is comfortably furnished, and has a restaurant attachment where you can't get a very good meal for seventy-five cents. The building cost $29,000. A walk through the horticulture building would tell you that Kentucky is about the only state in the Union which produces no fruit.

There is certainly much room for ensuring somebody, and when a Kentuckian goes there and sees the comparatively poor showing our state is making he feels like kicking at the whole shebang, from the dilatory Legislature down to the last Commissioner. The Pikeville Monitor has spoken its sentiments on the political question and will hereafter be Democratic.

A young man named Frank Houston, was drowned in the Ohio river at Central City one day last week. He was examining a trout line in a leaky boat and the boat sank.

Stephen Hensley died at his home near Buchanan last week from the effects of a wound caused by a plow handle striking him in the stomach while plowing. He was seventy-four years old.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AWAKENING.
The Most Important Step Made for Years.

The Commissioners of Lawrence county never before did as important and commendable a work as when they appropriated $5,000 this week to be expended on the public roads of Lawrence county. The amount appropriated would not alone warrant such a statement, but we look upon this as a beginning which will be followed until the work shall be complete.

Good roads are great civilizers and stimulate the people to a more energetic life. With facilities for getting their products to market the farmers will go to work in earnest and make their lands produce a surplus, rather than just enough to keep starvation away. The many listless residents of the county will have some activity forced into them by the change which will come with good roads. In short, the condition of the county and of everything in it will be improved far beyond the expectations of those who have not studied and observed the importance of the road question.

Lawrence county is in comparatively good financial condition. The wisest thing she can do at present is to go in debt for good roads. The laws in force have proved inadequate to even keep in repair the roads we already have, much less to build good ones. The only way to secure the desired end is to pay for the work out of the county treasury. The poor people cannot but greet such a proposition gladly, and the more extensive property holders are supposed to be men of sufficient intelligence to see the benefits in the movement to themselves, if they have no solicitude for public interests. It is proposed to let the contract for the road building in mile sections and to place the contracts as far as possible with the people along the routes. The laboring classes of the county will be employed to do the work. Thus the money expended will all be kept at home. So there is no good objection which can be offered by any class. Kickers are usually on hand upon every occasion, but any mawkish who raises a voice in opposition to this movement deserves to be banished. The town of Louisa will have to bear a heavy share of the burden because of the large amount of taxable property, but there is no protest offered from here.

The Commissioners assigned $3,000 to the principal thoroughfare of the county, the road from Louisa to the Morgan county line by way of Blaine. $1,000 is to be used on the road to Georges creek and $1,000 on the route to Bear creek. While some sections of the county may feel that they deserve an appropriation as well as these, they must remember that a beginning had to be made somewhere; that the Commissioners were limited to a very small appropriation, and that the assignment was the best they could do and wholly justified by the circumstances. Wait patiently and your turn will come.

The people are expected to do their parts toward helping this matter along in more ways than one. The practice of locating the county roads on ground which can be used for nothing else has been in vogue in Lawrence county and is as much responsible for our disastrous state of roads as any other thing. In the bed of a branch and on a hillside too steep to cultivate is where the county road is usually found. There must be a change in this. The roads must be located where they can be maintained.

Hanging Postponed.

The execution of Henry Hall, which was to have taken place at Pikeville last Friday, was postponed for fifty-five days by Gov. Brown, "to allow the condemned man to prepare." August 11th is the day now set. Hall killed his brother over a game of cards in which he lost one dollar. He did not allow his brother time to prepare. He has had two years in which to prepare for the death he knows he deserves, and this suspension certainly looks like a very strong encouragement of that worst feature of our court system—deferred justice.

Mr. T. E. C. Brinley

Has the following to say about the Electropoise and how it cures after effects of La Grippe:

Office Brinley, Miles & Hardy Co., Louisville, Jan. 30, '93.
Gents:—While attending the Memphis fair some months ago, I was attacked with severe pains in my arms and legs, the effects of gripple of last winter. I met your agent there, Mr. Harbott, who is an old friend, and he advised that I use the Electropoise at his office, which I did, with wonderful results. In a short time the pains left me, and I commenced to run a "Tobacco" my retail time had expired. I bought it, and would not part with it for any consideration. It is certainly a wonderful instrument, and it is more wonderful as to how it does its work, yet it does.

I think it is the duty of every man to make known to the afflicted anything that will be of any benefit to them, and the Electropoise certainly will. Respectfully,

T. E. C. Brinley.

Mr. Brinley is one of the oldest and best known plow manufacturers in the country.

The diseases cured by the Electropoise are not confined to any particular class of ailments. By its use oxygen is absorbed through the pores and membranes, adds strength and vigor to the entire system, and will cure any disease where there is vitality to build on and a cure is possible.

We invite all to call or write and get full particulars.
